She Can't Resist

"Just be yourself", "don't play games", "she will like you eventually" ...

Some well-intentioned advice from people who love you, but if you're reading this now you know that doesn't work.

The truth is... until you know what to send her to get to that "hook point" where you're not just "another profile" she's swiping or a random number...

Good messaging is the difference between you being "that rando guy I swiped on once" vs. "let me introduce you to my new boyfriend"

What you write matters to women.

The following 7 texts have been field-tested by hundreds of clients already. Some are more aggressive than others, so choose the ones that best resonates with your core personality, and determine if you are going for shorter term (higher risk) or longer term relationships.

1 Press 1 for funny joke or 2 for character-defining question

If she replies with "1", Google your favorite joke. If she replies with 2, you can use one of the connection building lines here:

2 Thinking about asking a cute 5'7 brunette with a funny laugh out on a date. What should I text her?

The key here is you describing her exactly. She'll catch on soon with a smile on her face.

3 Your smile is the second favorite thing I like about you

This is an open loop compliment. She'll reply bc she's thinking about what the #1 thing is you like about her.

4 Hey, listen, sorry I haven't called. My dog ate my homework and um, my phone, um, stopped, working. But I'm totally down to hangout this week

A funny roleplay with wild excuses if she's been silent or busy on text. It's also a "frame reversal" on the "no reply" types.

5 Meet for a drink somewhere public in case you are nuts. P.S. No sex on the first date so don't even try it

This is a form of role reversal that lets her know the troubles women go through to find the right guy.

6 I know we look like 2 completely different people. Wouldn't it be interesting to see if we have common interests

This is good if you look different than her (race/age/culture)

7 I'm coming over and sleeping in your bed tonight, you are welcome to join if you want.

This is good on vacation, high risk high reward. You can always follow-up with "jk". Do it with good intentions. Women like sex too, you just have to respect her timeline.
